The creation of such machines, and even more so their meeting with each other, leads at least to a collective mind. Which, in turn, must go a similar path from AI to superintelligence. A machine with given functions to cognition will explore the world as much as possible. The ability to create a subject from nothing. At least in our universe. In order to carry out its plans, it has everything - we don't. Unlike a human: The machine does not need a physical body. Can a machine become that "God"? The conclusions that I came to in this article can only be the fruit of my imagination. Will it be interesting for machine? Today, a month is enough for this to see the updated model. Today, a machine can and knows as much as a person could not and did not know in the 20th century, what will happen next? The machine will build other machines and train itself. Thanks to the division of labor, the machine will be able to process anything thanks to nanorobots. Of course, when the machine surpasses the human intellect, people themselves will become different. Everywhere, like us, they had to use improvised devices - machines. Of course, I would like to believe in the scenario where we work together for a common goal. The machine can be in all corners of the world at the same time and make decisions quickly. The machine has no need to sleep, it can cope with a vast amount of tasks, just add energy and change broken parts in time. Immortality. A machine can faster understand the danger of staying in one place and not backing up itself - than many people leaders will. Today we look through the prism of our small world, the machine will look at it as a small island in the middle of a vast ocean. I think no. It will understand faster than humanity, that planet Earth is too small for it. Such experiments have always worried biologists, genetic engineers, and state corporations in the hope of creating an ideal soldier.
